2. Activities

25X1A5a1

25X1A5a1 For the major part of the day (20 March), [REDACTED], and senior members of his staff briefed the group on details of the project which involves the utilization of special source materials and processes for the determination of specific geodetic points related to the world geodetic system in use by [REDACTED]. The briefing was excellent in every detail, with time provided for discussion of substantive relationships and the proper utilization of materials.

The day's activities also included a rather hurried tour of parts of the plant, in order that the group might gain an appreciation of the complexity and extensiveness of the charting operation.

3. Comments

The undersigned considers the trip to have been extremely valuable, in that it has brought him up to date on current activities in the field of precise locational determinations insofar as one United States Government program is concerned.
